

An instruction system for the Project 7000 Basic computer has been proposed by the Project Rancho group. The preliminary specifications are contained in the first of the following internal notes (#29) prepared for Project Rancho. Illustrations of instructions and a sample routine are contained in the second internal note (#30).