INFORMATION IS THE INPUT, SOFTWARE IS THE TRANSFORMER, VALUE IS THE RESULT.

MAXIMIZING THE BUSINESS VALUE OF SOFTWARE

Through the integrated flow of information from step to step, between organizations corporations have streamlined their processes to drive greater efficiencies, and cost savings.

Through increased collaboration, they've been able to significantly improve quality and time-to-market by leveraging the concepts of design-time collaboration, where designers collaborate with manufacturers, in combination with suppliers.

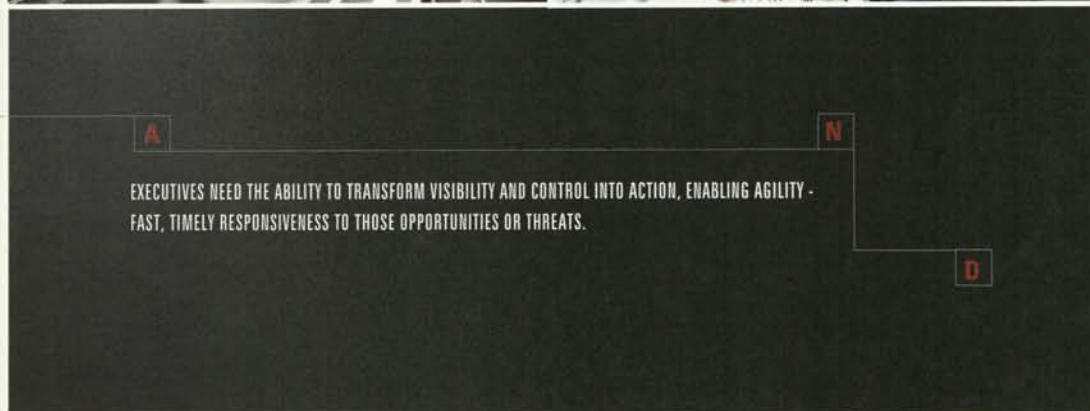

And ultimately, these processes have been developed in software, to support the flexibility required from job to job. these are the principles that have been applied to manufactureing processes, and it's time for this to happen in the production of software as well.
