Project 7000 Timing Simulation Studies

August 1, 1958

Attached you will find the copies which you requested of the reports concerning the Timing Simulator Studies of the SIGMA and HARVEST computers.

The reports were written at different times for internal consumption so that they do not necessarily form a complete nor consistent story. However, they should answer some of the points we discussed earlier this week.

As I told you at that time, we will be glad to discuss the internal organization of the computer system with you or others from Product Test whenever you think it might be helpful.
